

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An optical unit is transitional between a first mode for shooting and a second mode for non-shooting, and a supporting unit and a driving unit are located within a cylinder for substantially containing a tilting unit to be disposed about an optical axis as a center while are arranged so as to move together with a movable group and to avoid an imager and the retaining unit viewed from the optical axial direction.